

Anyla McDonald is a local author, peer counselor, student advocate, consultant, motivational speaker, poet, short story writer, journalist, and essayist. An activist committed to uplifting BI-POC communities throughout Washington. She has had the privilege of discussing topics such as diversity, social equity, and inclusion at various venues, including Whitman College, Garrison Middle School, WSU Tri-Cities, Columbia Basin College, WSU Pullman, Walla Walla High School, Walla Walla Community College, Richland High School, Kennewick High School, Pasco High School, and the University of Washington Bothell, among others. Additionally, she contributes to the Sparkle Initiative 2025 as secretary, the NAACP tri-cities as youth advisor, and the DEIA committee as a chair member. She has earned over 10 certifications through the Walla Walla school district.